Chapter 6: Ride the Wave, Strategy 2

Find someone you would like to have as a mentor, and write him or her a letter. Be sure to explain in the letter who you are, why you are seeking mentorship, and why you think he or she could provide the mentorship you seek. Explain the parameters of what you would want from this mentor. Do you seek just a single meeting? An ongoing email correspondence? An intensive mentorship oriented around a specific long-term goal? If you don't receive a reply within a few weeks, reach out again. If the relationship doesn't develop, try again with another potential mentor.
