

Student Feedback

Inviting means something felt welcoming, and it encourages you to participate. Disinviting means the opposite. These things made you feel uninterested or unwelcoming. Please provide honest examples from this year for each category. Your replies are anonymous, so don't write your name on the paper. An example of something that felt inviting might be Taking a brain break in class. An example of something that felt disinviting might be When we have to stay in our seats all day. Your replies will help me plan for next year.

This felt inviting	This felt disinviting

Adapted from Purkey, W. W. (1978). Inviting school success: A self-concept approach to teaching and learning. Wadsworth.