

Connecting Class Content to Real Life

Think about how you make your content relevant to your students.

- Do you currently connect your content to real life? In what ways?
- Do you have any internal resistance to connecting your content to real-life, real-world relevance? If so, where does that resistance come from? Why is it there?
- Based on what you've read, what ideas do you have for connecting your content to real life?