

Redirecting Students

Imagine yourself in a situation where a student is talking to a friend in class, not engaging in class, and ignores your first attempt at redirecting them.

- What would you be thinking?
- What would you be feeling?
- Would this push on any of your own triggers?

- How might you have responded in the past?

- How might you respond now?