

Reflecting on Building Trust

Think about a leader you trusted, especially if they were a leader who asked you to change or try something new that you were nervous about.

- Why did you trust them?
- What qualities did they have that made you trust them?
- Are you that type of leader for your students? Which of those qualities do you have when leading your students?
- Which of those qualities do you want to develop? How might you do that?