Figure 3.11: Fiction-Unit Learning Target Mastery Checklist

Learning Target Progression	Date Mastered
I can define characteristics of fiction texts.
I can determine word meaning in fiction text.
I can identify the setting.
I can explain how the setting is important to the story.
I can identify essential characters.
I can identify the problem.
I can identify the solution.
I can identify the events in the rising action.
I can identify the climax.
I can identify the events in the falling action.
I can describe the major events in a story.
I can analyze characters' thoughts, actions, and motivations.
I can explain the actions and interactions of characters.
I can compare and contrast characters, ideas, and events within stories.
I can determine the theme.
I can compare and contrast themes across multiple texts.
I can summarize fiction texts.
I can infer meaning in text.
I can cite evidence from text to support my thinking.	