

Figure 5.5: Narrative Feedback Sheet

Narrative Feedback Sheet
Writer Directions: Highlight or place a check next to the questions you want a reviewer to concentrate on when reading and providing you with input. Enter any additional questions in the blank spaces at the end of this sheet, if necessary.
Writer: _____		Reviewer: _____
Questions to Guide Revision	Check Appropriate Column:			Comments
	Yes	Somewhat	No
Is my introduction compelling enough to engage you?
Is the central conflict intriguing?
Do I build enough suspense ?
Is the story sequenced and well paced to facilitate reading and avoid confusion?
Does the climax create tension and put you on the edge of your seat?
Is the resolution satisfying and does it answer any questions you might have?
Are the characters realistic? Do I provide enough information about them?
Is the dialogue important to the story, and does it represent characters well?
Are there areas that are too wordy or long ? If so, what can I delete?
Is there a section of the story that I need to develop more?
Are there confusing parts that interfere with following the story?
Do I include enough figurative language and strong vocabulary to provide vivid descriptions about characters, setting, or events ?

Source: Glass, K. T. (2018). (Re)designing narrative writing units for grades 5–12. Bloomington, IN: Solution Tree Press.