

Classroom Autonomy Examination

This form helps us examine autonomy—the freedom from external influence to make certain choices in the classroom. Different audiences will complete this form in various spaces—faculty, class, and PTA meetings, for instance. In the What It Looks Like column, consider the current state of how teachers and students are allowed to make choices related to the various functions in each row. After completing the first column, consider what more autonomy would mean and how that would look related to each function. Record those thoughts in the What It Might Look Like if Teachers Had More Autonomy column.

Functions	What It Looks Like for Teachers	What It Might Look Like if Teachers Had More Autonomy
Curriculum
Daily lessons
Classroom environment
Other

REPRODUCIBLE

Functions	What It Looks Like for Students	What It Might Look Like if Teachers Had More Autonomy
Curriculum
Daily lessons
Classroom environment
Other		