

Using Flexible Time Well

As you draft your plan for using flexible time well, discuss and address the following critical considerations.

1. How will you successfully use this time to support and extend student learning?
2. How will you determine which interventions to offer?
3. How will you determine which staff member should lead each intervention?
4. How will students transition to the correct help sessions?
5. How will the school hold students accountable?
6. How will the school monitor student progress efficiently?
7. How will this time serve students who don't need extra help?
8. How will this time serve students who need help in multiple academic areas?
9. How will we avoid a process that becomes a paperwork nightmare?
10. How will we use only current resources and without asking teachers to work beyond their contractual obligations to achieve our desired outcomes?
