Student Voice Needs Survey Data Dig
1. What about the data affirms my thinking?
2. What surprises me?
3. What do I perceive as positive?
4. What is concerning to me?
5. Are there data that substantiate a change in how we are supporting our students? What suggestions do I have for improving our provision of three support services we already offer so that they address services our students request?

6. What is a requested service that would be relatively straightforward to implement?

7. What critically important need are we ethically compelled to respond to by partnering with an external agency or organization to provide the needed expertise or support? In other words, what incredibly important need is outside our expertise? (This need represents a prioritized partnership opportunity.)

8. What pieces of data spur further inquiry?

9. Where do I see opportunities for restorative discipline or justice? Where might we respond with services rather than consequences?

10. What need groupings, if any, have emerged that could be addressed together in a clustered approach?
